We warmly invite you to the US debut of The Scotland Conversations - a major new series of illuminating and engaging transatlantic discussions between Scotland and America - which open on 3-4 April 2006 to celebrate Tartan Day in New York.

Distinguished thinkers, commentators and performers from Scotland and America focus a twenty-first century lens on The Scottish Enlightenment - the great cultural flowering of the eighteenth-century. We revisit how its "men of genius" from David Hume to Adam Smith and Francis Hutcheson inspired the founding fathers of America, and changed forever the way we see the world. Join us.
